(Beaufort County, SC) - On Saturday, April 5, the Beaufort County Democratic Party joins the Women's March, Indivisible, and 50501 Movement for a National Day of Action. Protests are planned in Beaufort and Bluffton, with local speakers addressing issues affecting many of Beaufort County's families: losing access to social security and Medicaid, voting rights, civil rights, immigration rights, and veteran's concerns.

"From rising prices and unstable markets to the rapid loss of human rights, social services, and jobs, Beaufort County residents from all walks of life are reeling from the effects of damaging Republican policies. This national day of action shows our elected representatives and neighbors that the people of Beaufort County reject the harmful Republican agenda that is being implemented in both Columbia and DC.", said Chairperson Kathleen Hughes.

In this critical moment, the Beaufort County Democratic Party rises on April 5 to stand with the people, a coalition united in our fight to protect our freedom, democracy, and rule of law. As Senator Cory Booker (D-NJ) so eloquently stated, "The power of the people is greater than the people in power."

Press and supporters are encouraged to attend.
